

Commander's Call

By CSM R.K.A Price

Being a soldier is a special calling. It is not for everyone. (While I like to have a decent reenlistment rate, I am more concerned with quality than I am with quantity).

Very simply, soldiers work hard, and do soldierly things. Like policing the area, cleaning rooms and latrines, going on details, working in the motor pool, shining foot gear, getting hair cuts and wearing the uniform properly. As I once heard a grey-haired old CSM say, "When you take the King's money, you do the King's work". (In this case the King is the US taxpayer).

Some soldiers in the 22nd Signal Brigade have difficulty differentiating between "putting in time" and "getting the work done properly". If you are interested in merely "putting in time" perhaps you should consider going back to the civilian employment scene. However, don't expect to last very long in any one job with that same "putting in the time" attitude.

Unemployment

With the high rate of unemployment in the "land of the round door knob" its an employer's market, and they won't hesitate to kick you out on the sidewalk if you don't produce. The same rule applies in the military.

Standards

We have a special mission which requires special standards. Our standards are to be combat ready, twenty-four hours a day, ready to roll out of the motor pool on a moments notice, with each soldier well trained and every system hot and sparking. If you can't meet those standards, don't contact us, we don't want you. If you are meeting those standards, continue to march, proudly, as an honored member of the Army team.

Camera bugs needed for magazine

By PFC G.G. Liddy

The 22nd Signal Brigade will be featured in a magazine this fall designed to tell the Army-Europe story with articles and photos.

V Corps officials say the 28-page color publication will briefly describe each organization including a photo.

Brigade photographers who would like to see their work, with credit line, in a magazine with a circulation of 40-thousand should begin snapping now.

Photos must be 5 by 7 color prints of the brigade, McNair or the Cambrai-Fritsch area, or of 22nd soldiers doing signal type duties.

Photographs must reach the Brigade Public Affairs Office no later than March 31, 1982. For more information contact the Public Affairs Office 2315-656.
