Because of space, Letters to the editor should contain no more than 100 words.

All letters must have the complete name and address of the writer and must be signed, and received by the 15th of the month.

We do not print unsigned letters, but we will withhold your name from publication on request and protect your privacy.

Barracks is too noisy here

TO THE EDITOR:

As you know each soldier in the 22nd Signal Brigade has a responsibility, not only to him/her self, but to their fellow soldiers as well. We have clubs, gyms, etc. for loud music, dancing, playing ball, or just plain relaxing. Why not leave the noise, i.e. screaming, yelling, and loud music at the clubs?

Why do soldiers feel they have to prove to every one else in the billets that they have a louder stereo or a louder voice than any one else? Maybe they want attention, from the CQ or their neighbors who ask them to be quiet or turn down the music.

The walls in the billets are thin, and in the hallways, any sound you make echoes and certain sounds or noise you make sounds as if you are coming through the door of the rooms. Why do soldiers get mad when asked to turn down their music?

Maybe some soldiers are trying to watch TV, or listen to their own type of music. The other person may not want to hear your type of music, maybe the other person is trying to record his type of music, but can't because yours is too loud.

Come on soldiers of the 22nd Signal Brigade, let's shape-up and have CONSIDERATION for the next person.

A 17th Signal Soldier.
